NORTHWEST HILLS
PREVENTION
CONNECTION

NHPC

Our Mission

Northwest Hills Prevention Connection (NHPC) is dedicated to helping prevent youth substance use in Northwestern Connecticut, specifically in the towns of Barkhamsted, Norfolk, New Hartford, Colebrook and Winchester. Through a unique network of community members, we provide area families with an understanding of substance use disorder and the benefits of not using. This knowledge provides empowerment, helping community members to make the best choices for themselves.

Join The NHPC

Youth

Middle School, High School & College Students

The NHPC Council is an alliance of individuals, where all members agree to work together to allow our youth to be strong, safe and substance free.

Get involved with the NHPC to:

- Connect with community members
- Challenge yourself
- Improve your community
- Make a difference
- Learn new skills
- Enhance your college application

Adults

Our volunteer community coalition meets monthly to discuss ways of preventing drug abuse among youths and families. We plan events, recruit for our coalition, make decisions on educational materials, and educate ourselves and the community about various substances and their consequences.

Here are a few ways you can get involved:

- Share our information online
- Attend monthly meetings or NHPC events
- Volunteer at events or outreach table

We are recruiting
parents, adults, students, organizations & businesses from our catchment area to join our mission!
